

A Message for our Clients and Friends Regarding COVID-19 Resiliency

As we all try to cope with the unprecedented situation arising from the COVID-19 virus, we want to take this opportunity to notify our clients and friends that Riker Danzig is here to help if you need assistance of any kind, and to assure you that the Firm is operating and fully functional. Our attorneys and staff are equipped and permitted to work remotely and securely, and we remain available to assist our clients without disruption.

We care deeply about our employees and community, and have taken measures to enhance social distancing of our employees and create a safe working environment for those that need or wish to work from our offices, which remain open at this time. The attorneys and staff at Riker Danzig are here for you and anyone in need in our community, and we wish each of you the best as we all work through the challenges that are presented.
