

Partner Dennis Krumholz to Speak at Rutgers CPE Course on Environmental Law

Riker Danzig Partner Dennis Krumholz, head of the Firm's Environmental Practice, will speak on Tuesday, October 1st at "The Role of the Environmental Consultant in Litigation," presented by the Continuing Professional Education Office at Rutgers' Cook College. This half-day program, running from 8:30 - 1:00, is designed to prepare environmental professionals to participate effectively in litigation and other legally-oriented proceedings. Professionals working in all environmental areas, including site remediation, facility siting, toxic and hazardous waste management and land-use planning and permitting will gain knowledge that they can use in court, state and federal agency meetings, as well as other formal proceedings. More information is available at Cook College Seminar.
