Overview

Although Mary Kay Roberts' practice is closely focused on the complex world of government affairs, she likes to keep it simple. "I help my clients get things done in Trenton," she says.

She works with a broad range of industries, including pharmaceuticals, banking, insurance, education, technology, telecommunications, utilities, and also a recently formed coalition of the state's blood banks. "I may have 10 different piles on my desk, representing the issues I work on in a particular day," says Mary Kay. "Our practice is broad. But we keep our client base small - around 20 - so we can pay attention to each client's particular needs."

Both a lawyer and a lobbyist, Mary Kay also manages the firm's Trenton office. "Riker Danzig is unique in the state," she says. "We are a full-service law firm with a very strong government affairs practice in Trenton. I do not know of any firm in the state that has the presence, history and reputation that we do. We are able to offer the firm's clients the added component of lobbying services at all levels of government in the state."

Mary Kay is counsel to the New Jersey Bankers Association, a trade association of large and small commercial banks in the state, which serves as an advocate and voice for the needs and goals of the banking industry. She is also on the Board of Directors of the Banking Law Section of the New Jersey Bar, where she chairs the Section's Legislative Committee.

In 2018, Mary Kay was honored with the Mary Philbrook Award by the Women's Political Caucus of New Jersey at the Passion, Power, Progress Awards event in New Brunswick, New Jersey. The award is presented to a woman with a distinguished legal career "during which she has removed barriers and created opportunities for other women in the interest of advancing equality in all spheres."

In 2005, she was nominated Vice Chair of the Health Care Administration Board, an 11-member panel that advises the Commissioner of Health on regulation and health care policy.

Prior to joining Riker Danzig, Mary Kay was the chief of staff and legislative liaison to the New Jersey Department of Banking under Gov. Florio. In addition, she was Judicial Law Clerk to Hon. L. Anthony Gibson, J.S.C., Chancery Division in Atlantic and Cape May Counties. Raised in New Jersey, Mary Kay has long been involved with local government affairs.
